

My week in pictures

Martin Creed, artist

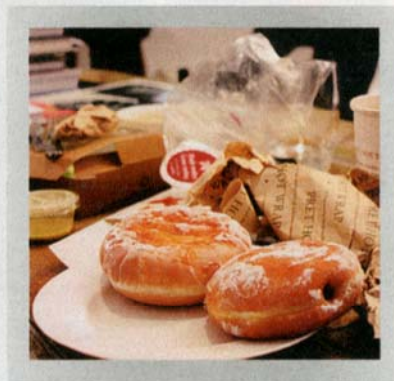

This is the street outside my studio. My doorway is on the left. People are always vomiting in that doorway.

This is me on my bike. I like this type of folding bike because it means that you can get a taxi home.

I wish I had a smaller amp.

I like doughnuts a lot.

A multipack of brushes. I like multipacks because they have all the different sizes in them and it means you don't have to choose.

This work has been in progress for months – a different colour's added each day, but I'm trying to finish it now, for the opening of my exhibition.

Martin Creed's Mothers Is showing at Hauser & Wirth, London (hauserwirth.com)

ON THE WEB

To see more pictures in this series, go to guardian.co.uk/culture/series/my-week-in-pictures